

Turn Questions into Reflections

1. Do you understand that what you are offering for spousal support is not reasonable?

2. Are you hoping that your spouse will never date again?

3. How do you think you would go about figuring each penny you contributed to each of the savings' accounts?

4. What is it going to look like if you both are going to live in the house during this divorce?

5. Can you see that the parenting plan you are wanting may not be what's best for the children?

6. Are you going to give this process an honest attempt?

7. How do you see this playing out if you feel like none of this is fair?

8. Do you recognize that you can't control what your spouse spends their money on after this is over?

9. Did you catch what your spouse was just explaining?

10. Can you see how working through some of these hurdles will be best for everyone?"
